9 Lannem Selma is a well-bred three-year-old by Lannem Silje and the expectations for this season are high. Showed speed in the debut after a break and will be hard to beat without a mistake. 7 Wilda Anki is a debutant from the Tjomsland stable and with Ulf Ohlsson in the sulky, we expect a good performance right away. 8 Norrlands Stjärna qualified as a two-year-old and with Mats E Djuse driving a debutant from the Jan-Olov Persson stable, we have respect for this horse. 6 Wilda Astrid belongs also to a big stable and Tjomsland usually has his horses well prepared for their debut.

6 Give Me Five N.O. has started the year well and it seems like he has found more gears. Held well outside the leader in his last race and is improving all the time. 2 Nikylon faced tough competition last year and has an impressive record for this level. It's his seasonal debut and he should be considered early. 10 Cumulus F.G. hasn't won a race yet, but a victory is getting closer. Finished second with a plus in the last run. 4 Mon's Skypunch showed promise in his debut for the new trainer last year but didn't trot perfectly after that. Seasonal debut.

2 Elma Wise As is a filly by Nuncio trained by Reijo Liljendahl. She qualified as a two-year-old and is expected to have a good chance in her debut race. 1 Easter Egg also has an exciting pedigree, and Svante Båth usually has his horses ready early for their debut races. 5 Trooper put in a good effort against a really impressive winner last time out, and we liked what we saw. He has been reliable so far, and this number should not be a problem. 9 Kluster was a bit slow in the debut, but now he has a race under his belt and may be improved.

8 Byron Face had a good seasonal debut as a runner-up but faced too good opponents last time out on Solvalla. Has recharged the batteries and faces nice conditions on his home track now. 6 Global Dash is in good shape and has scored a couple of nice wins lately. So far he has preferred to run in the lead. 7 Best Time Ever faced tough competition as a three-year-old and will be interesting to see in his seasonal debut. A contender for a place. 4 Bravo Umut Rodi has a unique style, but it is improving, and comes from a strong victory.

Small field but some really nice four-year-olds. 6 Pure Muscle won a V75 race last year and has been extra effective when he's come to the lead. Expected to perform well in the seasonal debut. 2 Drake Kronos showed great speed last year but is still not reliable and made a mistake when he was about to win in the seasonal debut. Hunting for revenge. 1 Night Art was a top horse in the beginning of the summer but didn't reach the same level of performance during the autumn. Interesting seasonal debut. 5 H.C.'s Crazy Horse made good progress during the season and was a V75 winner last year.

7 Grant Hall usually competes in other contexts and even though he hasn't been successful lately, the task here should be suitable. He has good strength. 10 Mysterious Lucifer got a nice trip in the pocket behind the leader last time out but overtook after attack on the last backstretch. Back in form again. 11 Perpetuate was a flop last year but don't forget that he is a very good horse for this class. Interesting comeback. 1 Firefoot won six races in the season opener last year but lost form after that. Has reloaded the batteries. A contender.

1 Guli Fantom has had a brilliant winter season and has become more stable and better in every way. He has only victories in his record and he prefers to run in the lead. Strong pick. 5 Ros Borken is also a winning horse but disappointed in his last start in the previous year, making his performance in this seasonal debut hard to predict. A strong contender. 6 Kavaleren has been making mistakes with gallops lately and has not been at his best lately. Owns good strength. 10 Buska Blyg hasn't been performing well lately but is a horse that is on the way to new heights.

3 Admiral As has been a talked-about horse throughout his career and tends to win when he's at his best. With 20 wins in 39 starts, he faces manageable competition. 8 Dwayne Zet looks good and comes from a very impressive victory. He could be a good option if the favorite fails. 1 Mellby Jinx had success as a young horse but had a quiet season last year. Nevertheless, it will be interesting to see how he performs for the new trainer. 5 Global Adventure has a misleading record. He could get a good trip and is one of several horses chasing the favorite tonight.

6 Miss Mighty won a V75 race already in her seasonal debut and is a four-year-old mare who will be interesting to follow throughout the year. She prefers racing in the lead and has a favorable starting position. 7 Young Mistress has shown the right attitude in several winning races for Per Linderöth. She finished fast in the last race and is in full form. 1 Queen Tresher is a talented mare who usually performs well when racing in the lead. She prefers to run in the front, and her stable is currently in good form. 4 Dorothea Mil had a strong start to her three-year-old season with several impressive victories, but her current form is difficult to predict as she resumes from a spell.

A three-year-old race with only five starters, but there is potential in several of them and the race will be worth watching. 3 Epsom As took a very nice win from the outside leader last year as a two-year-old and is very exciting now in the season debut. 4 Ka Boom Mearas won also as a two-year-old and has the capacity to match tough competition this year. A challenger. 2 Carlos Diamant won a cheap race in the last debut, but he is strong and there should be a lot of improvement with that race under his belt. 5 Ice Pack is making his debut for a new trainer. Is experienced.
