6 Didicoy won three races in a row this autumn. Was eighth in November and not as good but has been on the way up lately and is our pick. 5 Global Daylight scored the first victory in May and has been improved this season and won four times. Won easily in the last run and has to be considered. 2 Soccerbox was good last winter and likes this time of the year. Has earlier done well directly after a layoff and should not be overlooked. 10 Olea Håleryd has scored all four wins over the middle distance and together with this driver.

11 Våler Nikolai has shown great form lately. He won easily two starts back and got locked in with energy left in the last run on Bergsaker fourth up. 10 Tekno Jerven is not reliable but comes from a very good second spot from outside the leader. Early contender without a mistake. 7 Källsjöving has scored two good wins in a row this year and despite tough opponents he should not be overlooked together with Ove A Lindqvist. 5 Reime Blesen can do a lot better than in the last run and if he lives up to his capacity he is possible here.

4 Itso Sisu put in a good effort over the short distance in the last run. He has scored all wins over the middle or long distance and is our pick. 3 Polar Operation was a non-starter at the end of October and got one run under his belt in November. She was improved a lot in the last run where she finished fast to a second spot. Should be followed. 7 Muscle Man Boko did not find room three starts back and has booked two good results lately. 2 Boke Palema likes the long distance and in case of quick pace he could win this.
